

Who Is Miranda?

Right now, that seems to be the burning question on everyone's mind...Well, everyone who is a fan of the RGI series and has read through the end of Love Is The Bond, that is.

Pictured here is a new 2.25" promotional button (courtesy of the Promotional Art Department and the fine folks at cheapbuttons.com) This promo item will make its debut during my northeastern US tour in mid-July (7/12 through 7/23).

Fans across the country were all about the "Free Felicity O'Brien" buttons when we rolled them out, but since All Acts Of Pleasure is so close to being on the shelves, that button has been retired (which also means that if you are lucky enough to have one, it is a collector's item!). Since we wanted to keep the spark of mystery alive a little longer, the "Who Is Miranda" campaign was born.

Our fabulous model now not only graces the pre-release poster, but a button as well. (Wonder if she will start to get recognized wherever she goes?) Anyway, in a not too distant update I promise to also give you a look at the cover concepts for AAOP. The end result is going to be outstanding!

Oh, and by the way...I guess I should let you know that just because we have a Who Is Miranda button, that doesn't necessarily mean you're going to find out. <evil laugh!>